

APPLICATION FOR APPROVED TRAINING PROGRAM

General Information

What is APTA Training Approval?

APTA Training Approval is the process by which the American Polarity Therapy Association identifies training programs which meet the criteria in the Standards for Education. Enrollment in a training program approved by APTA provides the competently trained student with APTA registration upon successful completion of the program.

Why Approved Trainings?

Training approval is for the purpose of assuring a quality curriculum that supports the practice of Polarity Therapy. Training approval provides the following benefits:

- APTA gains a way to strengthen the use of the Standards for Practice and Education.
- Provides a basis for referring students to Approved Training programs.
- Practitioners can be confident that new colleagues have received appropriate training.
- Students can be assured that their education will lead to the profession and practice of Polarity Therapy as defined by APTA and required for BCPP registration.
- Consumer rights are protected by increasing quality and uniformity of Polarity Education.
- Other Healthcare professionals can be confident in making referrals to Board Certified Polarity Practitioners.

Who can register a course?

Anyone who has been an RPE with an APTA membership in good standing for 2 years can apply to have a course approved.

What courses can be approved?

To become an APTA Approved Training Program (ATP) the curriculum and content of the course must be based on the APTA Standards for Education and Code of Ethics and its descriptions of competencies expected of Polarity students. Two categories of approval are currently available:

- (1) Associate in Polarity Principles programs
- (2) Registered in Polarity Principles programs

Approved Training Manager

When a Polarity program has been approved and by and registered with APTA, the submitting RPE gains the title of Approved Training Manager (ATM). The ATM is responsible for the quality of content of the program and the assurance that the graduates of that program are competent in the APP or RPP competencies of that Program, as listed in the Standards for Education, Ninth Edition.

How are the Standards for Education used?

The APTA Standards for Education have ten areas of concentration that locate the area of competencies expected at the APP/RPP levels of education. Please refer to page 2 of the Standards for Education, Ninth Edition document for individual hourly requirements in specific subjects. The Standards for Education define the profession of Polarity Therapy. APTA sponsored meetings, between leading Polarity Practitioners and teachers, in order to establish the Standards for Education. The source of the Standards is the written work of Randolph Stone, DO, DC, ND, founder of Polarity Therapy. Each segment of the Standards for Education is referenced to a specific source in Dr. Stone's books. They concisely summarize the content of Dr. Stone's material while qualifying the minimum number of hours considered necessary to teach each aspect of Polarity Therapy.

What are the Standards for Administration?

The Standards for Administration reflect the responsibility and requirements of any Polarity Training Program offered as an APTA Approved Training Program. The source of the Standards for Administration was the experience of those who also developed the Standards for Education.

Is there flexibility within the Standards for Education and Administration?

Polarity Therapy is a comprehensive health care system which lends itself to interpretation and adaptation in many sub-specialties. The Standards for Education and Administration is not intended to prescribe rigidly how to teach the training program. APTA is committed to a policy of diverse teaching styles and varied training experiences. APTA encourages innovative approaches to the instruction and practice of Polarity Therapy within the framework of the Standards for Practice.

Distance Learning:

If any part of the course will be delivered via a Distance Learning method, the following criteria apply:

1. The sections of the Standards for Education that can be taught using a Distance Learning method include:
 - Theory & Basic Principles of Polarity
 - Anatomy and Physiology
 - Energetic Nutrition
 - Stretching Postures
 - Business Management and Promotion
 - Professional Ethics and Law
2. The following sections of the APTA Standards for Education can be taught with a combination of Distance Learning and in-person experience, by the ATM or RPE on faculty:
 - Energetic Evaluation and Integration
 - Energetic Touch
 - Communication and Facilitation
 - Personal Polarity Experience
 - Clinical Practice

3. Students must be provided with a student/Approved Training Manager communication plan, detailing timely feedback and how/who/when the student may turn for additional assistance for any part of the course delivered via Distance Learning.
4. Detailed information as to how the success of the instruction will be measured must be provided to the students.
5. Evaluation of Energetic Touch will be conducted by the Approved Training Manager of the program or a designated RPE from the faculty of the program.

Training Approval
